DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-3, 10-13 and 15-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fleischer, III et al. (U.S. Pat. #: 5,974,133) in view of Smith et al. (U.S. Pat. #: 6,404,876).

Regarding claims 1, 11 and 16, Fleischer et al. ("Fleischer") teaches a method and apparatus for billing a subscriber for a local toll-free communication comprising:

receiving information related to an originating number (i.e., location code, etc., col.23, line 40 – col.24, line 54);

transmitting the originating number information to a network element (i.e., SCP 101 as shown in figure 3, col.25, lines 37);

receiving information related to a terminating number (i.e., terminating NPA-NXX, etc.);

comparing the geographical location of the originating number information to geographical location of the terminating number information;

if the comparison is within the same LATA (i.e., matched LATA), routing the originating number to at least one participating local switch (i.e., SSP) serving the terminating number (col.31, line 45 – col.32, line 5; col.32, line 66 – col.33, line 30 and col.35, lines 26-46);

Art Unit: 2643

completing the local toll-free communication to the termination number; and transmitting a call record to a billing database.

It should be noticed that Fleischer fails to clearly teach the feature of billing the local toll-free communication. However, Smith et al. ("Smith") teaches such feature in col.10, lines 30-59 and col.15, lines 14-37 for a purpose of compensating to local service providers for their routing services.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art the time the invention was made to incorporate the use of the feature of billing the local toll-free communication, as taught by Smith, in view of Fleischer in order to compensate to specific local service providers for their local routing services.

Regarding claims 2-3, Fleischer further teaches limitations of the claim in col.12, lines 27-49.

Regarding claims 10 and 15, Fleischer further teaches limitations of the claim in col.29, lines 27-57.

Regarding claim 12, Fleischer further teaches limitations of the claim in col.41, lines 16-39.

Regarding claim 13, Fleischer further teaches limitations of the claim in col.35, lines 40-46.

3. Regarding Claims 4-9 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fleischer, III et al. (U.S. Pat. #: 5,974,133) in view of Riskin (U.S. Pat. #: 4,757,267):

Art Unit: 2643

Regarding claims 4-8, Fleischer teaches all subject matters as claimed above, except for billing record of the local toll-free calls. However, Riskin teaches such limitations of the claims in col.8, line 37 - col.9, line 7. Riskin further teaches the potential customer called for item such as goods or services (see Abstract of Riskin patent) for a purpose of billing subscriber of 1-800 toll free number for toll free calls initiated by callers.

Regarding claims 9 and 14, Riskin further teaches limitations of the claims in col.18, lines 36-48.

4. Claims 17-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fleischer, III et al. (U.S. Pat. #: 5,974,133) in view of Smith et al. (U.S. Pat. #: 6,404,876) as applied to claim 16 above, and further in view of Wulkan et al. (U.S. Pat. #: 5,862,203).

Regarding claims 17-18, Fleischer and Smith, in combination, teaches all subject matters as claimed above, except for the features of the selected rate is derived from call volume or a subscription term. However, Wulkan et al. ("Wulkan") teaches such features in col.13, lines 41-62 and col.17, lines 4-36 for a purpose of providing savings to telecommunications subscribers.
